2 Hafa Go Go did not convince last time and can do much better than that. If she stays calm and lives up to her capacity, she will not be easy to catch. 11 Nikki B.R. has two wins in a row and looks to be in top form. Difficult starting position but should not be discounted. 5 Last Story is speedy but not reliable. In the mix without a mistake. 3 Finest Russian looked nice in the last race and had energy left. Should not be overlooked.

4 Bjørkejerv galloped over the home stretch in the last race. Owns good capacity for this class and if he avoids a mistake, he should have the best chance to win this race. 3 Uberg Kos won the last time he met our pick and did so in good style. If he reaches the front, he will lead the race for a long time. 5 Kringelandisak comes with three wins in a row and is in great shape. In the battle for victory. 14 Låhne Goliat won from the outside of the leader in the last race and impressed. Should not be discounted here.

7 Max Orlando is a quick starter and the favorite for the lead. The five-year-old is very comfortable in that position and will be hard to beat if he gets to dictate the pace a bit. 5 Noah B.R. has won six of his eight races and been at least third. Is the main challenger. 10 Lasse B.R. did well in the last race, finishing second at Axevalla. Looks in good shape and is an early contender behind the favorite. 13 High Performance finished well in the last race. Barefoot is a plus now.

2 Nelson Catch Me finished well in the last race, as second behind Cabron. He is better drawn now and we think the six-year-old will get his revenge. 10 Cabron won easily in the last race but has a different starting position now. Uses to finish strongly and will certainly be on the finish photo again. 3 Hobart sprinted well in the last race and should benefit of quick pace. Possible behind the favorite. 5 Jackson Avery is a quick starter but will probably not be driven in the lead over this middle distance. Mainly a place bet.
