6 Follow Him is a really capable horse that has had a good reputation for a long time. He has made three starts for Maria Törnqvist and done well, most recently finishing second in the V75. Perfect conditions here and once in the lead he will be extremely hard to beat. 10 Pure Atlas showed his ability in the last race when he won in very impressive style. Challenger without a mistake. 1 Kind Of Blue could reach the position behind our pick here. 8 Marseille has not convinced lately.

1 Pelshin Boko has started her career nicely and promisingly. Was in a really tough field last time and not good enough then. Needs to open a little better than she has done so far to find the lead. Should be considered early. 2 May Day comes from a Breeders Crown-heat and never had a real chance. Showed nice speed before that. 7 Maroon met Anders Svanstedt's Caribbean Lemon in the last race but followed well. Tricky lane. Possible but needs some racing luck. 8 Önas Unica is poorly drawn, but should not be discounted yet.

7 Aske Faks had impressed in three straight races before the last race where he was unrecognizable. Looked unfocused that day. The fact that Eirik Høitomt, who knows the horse well, is driving now is an advantage. 14 Åsvinn S.K. faces a really tough 20 meter handicap here. However, he is an extraordinary horse. 2 L.D.Odin has been competing a lot in the V75 during this season and done quite well. 5 Friska Viljan has good capacity, but is not reliable at all.

The horse has shown high capacity and should have a top chance here. 12 Global Grand Slam has galloped in two straight starts, but the horse has been matched in tough company and the trainer is very pleased with him. 8 Abbagliante has shown good form lately but needs some racing luck with this poor number behind the gate. 9 Osvaldo A.Boko has three runs under his belt after a layoff.

Reaches a nice position here. 1 Tour de Valley is matched in good companies and has a perfect starting position. 7 Abel Lock has met tough opponents most of the time lately.
