7 Selmer IH needs no major introduction. He is today's king on the ice and is incomparably good every year during the winter, which is also visible on the score line with his three straight victories. He is coming off a victory in a V75 race on Finnish soil, where the competition was considerably tougher than what he is now up against. Top chance again! 3 Boke Palema has scored two impressive wins lately. He is very strong and will keep up the pace and not invite his main rival here 4 Eskimo Brother didn't look completely empty when he galloped last time. Had paused for a long time before and should have been improved with a race under his belt. 6 Waffle is in good form and faces perfect conditions money-wise. Can cause an upset here if the favorite would fail.

3 Saga Kiro is up and down, except for the times she competed on the ice surface. Four starts have meant three victories on the ice. Last time she put in a strong effort outside the leader. If she lives up to her capacity this time too, she should be seen with the highest chance of winning in an otherwise open race. 7 Möller Oda failed last time in her first start on ice. Certainly good enough to fight for victory in this company if she lives up to her ability just like two starts back. 1 Norrland's Oda is interesting even if she doesn't win too often. However, she has shown that she prefers to run in the front.. Nice task here with just two horses in the first circle. 4 Lome Hilda has taken her victories from the lead. Faces nice conditions here and Ulf Ohlsson is an advantage.

2 Hjalmar Xpress has shown good speed for this class, but also some tricky tendencies and has, for example, galloped in three out of five starts. If he avoids a mistake he faces very nice conditions here. 4 Juventus convinced in the debut, but has not been as good after that. In terms of capacity, he is much better than most in the race, but with question marks for both form and competing on ice, he is just our second pick here. 3 I'm Alice does not have the same capacity as our top duo, but unlike them, is reliable. The form is on the way up. Should be followed.

2 Holms Herkules has aimed for the winter season and in November and December he has taken two victories in four starts. Both are taken from the lead, which seems to be a position the five-year-old likes a lot. The main question mark is if he handles the ice. In that case he will not be easy to beat. 7 Storspjøver was wrongly balanced last time, but in any case got a useful run under his belt. Faces tough conditions money-wise, but has more experience on the ice compared to, for example, our pick. Will pass many opponents during the final lap. 5 Edbest came close to winning a V75 race on the ice last time and is in good shape. If Ulf Ohlsson manages to find the right way again, revenge can come quickly.

5 Fancynancyclancy comes from four starts in Finland where she has done well. Last time she didn't get the chance and was left with plenty of energy left from third on the inside. The form seems to be good and from a nice position behind the gate she should have a good chance to find an early lead. Very good chance in that case. 8 Jon Snow Pellini is poorly drawn. He showed last time that he is in top form and with the right journey he is the main challenger to our winner. 6 Coco Prince comes from a second spot and showed upward form. Not a very quick starter but should be considered early behind the favorite with the right trip. 1 Radiographicimage failed last time at Umåker, but prefers to attack from behind. Will get a defensive trip now and should not be overlooked with this nice post.

1 Kane Beuckenswijk has delivered strong performances on the ice and comes from a nice second spot in the V75. The seven-year-old is good for this class and can open fast. Good chance to reach the front here and top chance in that case. However, he is good from behind too. Our winner. 5 Cold Feet needed the race second last and looked clearly better last time but got locked in. He likes the ice track and is working well. He is versatile, but over-pace would be a big advantage. In that case he will pass many opponents. 6 Melbourne Boko got locked in with lots of energy left last time and has an ice race under his belt. 3 Captain As has earlier done well with tight starts, but is now making his debut on the ice.

6 Bollinger Bishop started last Christmas at Umåker and then won convincingly with several lengths. It was perhaps not the toughest opposition in the race, but the way he won was impressive. Despite a post a little far behind the gate this time, he will certainly fight for victory again. Our pick. 2 MT Rick Nash is consistent and good and uses to put in good effort. He is well drawn behind the gate and should he manage to find the lead, he should have a good chance to fight for victory. 10 Brida has got a tricky post over the short distance. She will be driven with the American bike now for the first time, which is interesting. Could cause an upset in case of over-pace. 12 Chic makes her second start for the new trainer. Uses to meet tough horses but needs quick pace here to get into the match. In that case she could be in the mix.
