2 Make Or Break Zaz performed well in the qualification race and is certainly well prepared for a good performance in this debut race. A good chance. 10 Felicia S.H. is also making the first start in her life and the chances are not easy to predict. But she should be considered. 9 Röde Orm showed 1.20 in the qualification race and most likely has plenty of time to cut. Must be taken seriously. 4 Spirit of Love finished decently from third on the inside in her debut race, on a good time - and now with a race under her belt.

6 Global Difference showed 12.5/800 meters from third on the outside last time out and won nicely. Good chance again. 3 Daiquiri Grif galloped on the way to victory in the debut on Swedish soil but took quick revenge last time out. Early contender again. 8 Manifest Boko has had a promising start and is, like many of the competitors, developing rapidly. An early choice. 4 Hobitten Shadow won closely in the lead last time out. It may be tough to reach that position here, but still an early contender.

5 Fiona led from the start in her debut, increased the pace 800 meters from the finish line, and won easily. She has a good chance to win again. 11 Princess Beluga has been up and down so far and is still waiting for her first win. She is an early contender here. 12 Global Delicious led 1200 meters from the finish line in her debut and won easily. She has been a non-starter after that, and this number is poor. Still an early choice. 6 Maxspirit finished strongly in her last race, and with that run under the belt, the horse should be in great shape. Possible.

8 Kashmir B. won in his comeback but galloped in the last run. He is developing well and has a good chance here. 2 Proppeli Silvio is yet to win a race, but it should only be a matter of time. A good bet if he manages this tricky number. 4 Rex Tile was outstanding after an early lead in the latest race. Tough number too, but early contender without a mistake. 7 Dats Rose performed decently from behind the leader in the latest race and won confidently from the lead in the race before that. Possible.

12 Miking finished with a lot of energy left in his comeback race, which was also on the V75. He should be improved by that run and has a good chance here. 1 Moyenne has a much better starting position and should have a decent chance to reach the lead. A contender regardless. 8 Jessica Sisú has performed well in two starts after a layoff. Tricky starting position, but worth considering early with a bit of luck. 4 Mahara Nice now has a race under her belt, and as was the case in her last race, she has Christoffer Eriksson in the sulky. Should be considered.

5 Marabou Brodda has taken several steps forward since she is trained by Thomas Uhrberg. We believe she will take an early lead, and we tip her as the winner. 9 Woodbury Wine is perhaps at her best when leading, so this bad starting position is a disadvantage. Nevertheless, she will be the strongest challenger to our top pick. 4 Love No Pain is a tough mare who hasn't been performing at her best lately. However, she's a strong contender if she lives up to her capacity. 3 Jeans'n Passion hasn't raced in a while, and she might need some time to reach her top form. Nevertheless, we still think she's an early contender.

3 Roman Tile was brave after a tough trip last time out. It's uncertain if he can reach the lead, but he's interesting regardless. 6 Michel F.Boko got pressured in the lead early last time out, but still managed to win comfortably. He's a given contender once again. 12 Hotliner is a speedy Danish guest, but is poorly drawn here. He can do it tough and should be considered. 1 San Sebastian finished well last time and wasn't far from the win. With an interesting post position, he should be seen as a hot contender.

1 Icebreaker Sisu can open fast behind the gate and we think he will reach the front with this number one. Our pick. 5 Heimaey has now got two races under the belt after a layoff. Nice number and should be considered early on. 3 Staro Peanut comes from a good second spot but did not trot perfectly. Normally an early contender. 10 Neo Turbo has put in decent performances lately, but without winning. Back row draw but possible with some racing luck.

2 Eagle Rock comes from an impressive win and is in great shape. He finished strongly then and here he could reach the front. Our pick. 8 Corsaronero Font has been the talk of the town, but he hasn't managed to win yet. However, he has the ability and is a strong contender. 6 Rossi Garline won in the debut for trainer Christoffer Eriksson and should be even better with that race under his belt. Early choice. 13 Digital Summit hasn't lived up to expectations lately. Has good skills though and should be considered.

6 It's About Time has started three times this year and has been a bit up and down. Has good potential and should be considered early here. 5 Nacido Boko has raced twice in Sweden and shown good speed. An early contender for the win. 2 Global Enjoy has had a decent start to the year but has to improve further to win this. Should be followed. 1 Daniel Hazelaar made a mistake in the comeback race but is certainly improved now. Interesting position and should be considered early.
