RANK

3 Direktör Ribe faces nice conditions here. He does not win often but he has improved a lot under the saddle. He was 20 meter behind 4 Mjölner Loke and on the same start as 6 Allie Ö. K. when he won last time, but is better drawn now. 14 Sundbo Komet has done really well under the saddle and has been the Swedish king in this discipline. Possible despite a tough task. 12 Vital Vinter is Helene Kolle's choice in this race. 7 Järvsö Kurt makes his debut in this discipline and will be ridden by Carré.

7 Oriole Boko was a bit disappointing in the last race, but the horse can do much better and Daniel Reden choses to start him again which says a lot. Despite this tricky lane a bit behind the gate, he should have a good chance. 12 Call Of The Wild won straight away in the seasonal debut. Poor starting position but has good capacity. 11 Keight Bless was really nice in the debut but has been a bit slow. 1 Global Forever is a capable stallion.

2 Merillion gave up from the lead after a quick finish in the last race. Still inexperienced, but has good capacity. Should be one of the more reliable horses here. 6 Carbon Footprint has only won one race in his career but was good in the seasonal debut in a awesome time. Magnus Jakobsson should be able to take advantage of this lane and the five-year-old is an early choice. 10 Nyatrix has been matched against good opponents lately. 8 Tutankhaton has got a tricky lane.

9 Greenhill's Dancer impressed when he won easily in the last race. Should normally get a nice trip from here and has shown high capacity for this class. Early choice. 4 Tintarella won in a top time in the last race. Can open fast. Will go for the lead. Early contender with the right trip. 10 Victory Poseidon has been consistent and good. Possible. 1 Hidden Dragon will certainly get a nice trip.

4 Noble Express has really done well so far. Is strong and tough in every way and also driven by regular driver Per Nilsson which is always an advantage. He is not fast enough to reach the front, but his opponents should have respect for him. 3 Roosevelt has nice speed and comes from a good victory. 6 Freelader has not started for 1.5 years, but owns good capacity. 2 Tayno B.B. is well drawn and has been successful in Norway.

6 Aske Balder has scored a couple of impressive wins. He has won quite closely but shown the right attitude. Here he has a good chance of reaching the lead, a position from where he likes to run. Should have a good chance. 7 Briskeby Pilen is perhaps the one with the highest capacity in the first circle, but he is a bit tricky. If he is at his best, he will challenge our favorite. 3 Uberg Kos owns great strength. 2 Stein Frøy has good speed. Dangerous with the right trip.

4 Daim Brodda was the best filly of her year last season and put in a number of fantastic performances. She is now back after winter training, but she should have an excellent chance straight away. Good chance in the lead and once in that position she will not be easy to beat. 5 Kaffeåchampagne has won four of the last five starts. Is strong and tough. 3 Elodia makes an interesting debut in Scandinavia. In the mix here. 2 Countess Face has good speed but is a tricky.

4 Resilient Reddington has finally got a good starting position. Has put in a couple of really strong performances lately without winning. Could reach the front here and then the race is probably over, but regardless of position he has to be considered early. 8 First To Fight has developed a lot lately and should be considered despite a bad lane. 5 Ice In Brego is fast. Interesting here with Benzon. 12 Bys Rosy Nunc returns from a layoff. Has good skills.
