3 Selmina Venit has competed in tough competition and was a finalist in the Breeders Crown last year. As a 4-year-old she has continued to develop and from the lead, where three out of four wins have been taken, this task looks very appealing. 7 Honey Orchard has been really good in both races this year and has shown to be tough. 4 Maroon lacks the same experience and toughness as the most qualified competitors, but is in good form and has been on the way up lately. 2 Snowqueen should be near top form with two runs under her belt. Goop now!

4 C.Me Af Caramé finished well in a strong group in the last race and set a nice time for this class. Opens fast and could find an early lead. Our pick in an open apprentice race. 1 Runner Lobell faces nice conditions money-wise and showed in the debut for his new trainer that there is plenty of development left. 10 Martin Palema returns after a layoff, but has shown nice resources for this class when he lives up to his capacity. 3 Västerbo Monroe finished well in the comeback and should have taken a clear step forward in terms of form for this race.

7 Omari Boko should have been improved by a stay in France and even though he was not good enough in the seasonal debut his form should have been on the way up now. Nice task as two of three career wins have been taken over this distance. 2 Running Road cannot be blamed for the gallop last time. Before that, the form had been good for a long period and the Express Bourbon-son has proven to be more strong than fast. 10 Keep Loving You is not reliable. If he avoids a mistake, he is an early contender. 8 Mooseisloose C.C. owns good strength and can do it tough.

6 Iziah Zet is much better than the results show. Has a good starting position and could find an early lead. He has won two out of three races there, but he is not dependent on the front to win this. 4 Even Younger won straight away for the new trainer and finished very well in the last race. Carl Johan Jepson now and top form - he is a contender. 13 Waitingashell has a sharp finish with the right backs until the home stretch. 5 Roy Holger finished brilliantly in the last race.

5 Kung Fu Dot Com has shown great skills scoring five wins in eleven starts and he makes an interesting debut now for this trainer Kim Pedersen. The five-year-old has not started for just over six months, but is certainly well prepared after a strong track record. 2 Lugano Cortina did well as third at Solvalla in the last race. His form seems on the way up and the opposition is clearly easier this time. 9 Orel Boko has performed stably in three starts this year and is approaching top form. Interesting changes this time. 8 Jaguar B shows good form and uses to finish strongly.

11 Magic In has done well in two straight starts and has clearly improved. David Persson has found a nice task for the five-year-old, who faces good conditions money-wise. 10 Kingston D.K. should have made a lot of progress with this run under his belt. The Danish winner has the right attitude and will probably run barefoot now. 9 Run Champ Run is back in the fine form he showed last winter when he won in the V85, among other things. 8 Nice Run has had some bad luck lately but is in good form and with the slightest of luck he will fight for a place.
