4 Nascar has galloped in the year's two starts, which is never positive, but at least he has had run under his belt and the stable was clear that he needed it before the debut of the year. The capacity is high in the well-traveled four-year-old and he stands very nice conditions this track ladder. From the track in the middle behind the car, the given scenario is that he blows to close and from there he will not be easy to pick down. Klar tip. 15 Gibraltar comes in top form and now it will be barefoot for the first time - highly interesting. The situation is of course problematic, but the opposition is not intimidating. 9 Bear Expectation is a strong variety that favoured by the high speed. 5 Åkiwalkie Millpond can open fast and is guaranteed a trip in the front.

10 Önas Spartacus did definitely good behind capable Dats Tore last time and comes in top form. This time it will also be barefoot - a balance he is perfectly happy with. lane ten is not a dream, but in this group he should still be seen with a good chance. 9 Henry Palema was got an offensive trip last and went away to an easy win, where the impression was clearly better than before. The form is therefore on the way up and now it will also be a American bike, which is a plus. 12 Bourbon Brodde is capable but has an awkward track twelve and needs some pace to getting in the race. 7 Asa Always Ready delivered a sharp finish last time and she will be dangerous if she can save the speed. 5 OM Inspiration has received three run under his belt and vice barefoot.

5 Mr Weasley won all five starts last year and last time he made his annual debut, there he hooked well as third behind tough horses and he should progress considerably from that passer. The situation is fine and if the four-year-old found his way to the lead it would be optimal, but even from the position outside the leader he should be seen as having a reasonable chance of leaving with the victory. 1 Armand Dee won safely from the lead last time, but was withdrawn for a throat infection after that and the day's status is somewhat difficult to assess. However, it is a good horse for the class and now he is maxed out in the equipment - which should give a real kick. 8 Mac Idzarda comes with two strong performances in the bag and benefits from a small field. If he saves his speed, he will be dangerous in the end. 3 Red

6 Nyatrix was newly shod last time and didn't work for the day with that the balance. The mare feels good in training afterwards and is quick to start. without a mistake, she has a very good chance to lead the race all around, but she is not to be trusted and this feels like a real race where you shouldn't skimp on the lines if you don't nail the tipsetta. 10 Kaffeåchampagne shot to fine at late free last time. The race she did at the beginning of January was really sharp with a 1.14 finish after the start gallop behind Goddess Nike. 5 Ronja Muscles has shown enough speed and she can also open well in the vault if she handles this number. Gets a nice run in in front. 4 Landing Field has competed in tough company and early contender. However, she has not started for over six months.

4 All In Face was mediocre last time and has had to recharge the batteries after that and returns after a three month hiatus. He was second behind Winner Brodde in the debut for Bergh in December, which speaks volumes about the capacity. The six-year-old is very fast out of the starting pits and is the lead favorite. In that position, he has won three out of five, so we expect him to run there. 2 Global Billboard was without print last time, but Jakobsson is aware that he needed a real run under the belt. He will be better now and barefoot is a plus. 3 Bicc's Avalon is in hysterical form for the day and has been making some terrific finishes lately. Enjoys the distance and challenges. 7 Don Robin was much improved on new balance last time and we think he will have a top race.

9 Ikaros Di Quattro was locked in with the rub last saved behind horses. Has been superb in two straight victories before that. He is nimble out of the vault and with only two horses on the starting vault, there is a good chance that he will be right in front of the starting horses. If this armored car answers them, it will be a long way home. 8 Dynamite Sensation was beaten by the tip set at the start at Axevalla in December. The form is better now and with healthy fluids he is a contender without shoes on his hooves. 11 Husse Boko makes his annual debut and usually always goes well after a break. Runs to the end, which makes the whole thing more tricky. 3 Rocket Snapper rises in the lead, but also owns a good finish. A back race on Crebas horse therefore does not have to be wrong.
