6 The Pope is very good for this class. Faces perfect conditions and should have a good chance of finding the lead. Once there the four-year-old will be hard to beat. 11 Emothi faced easier opposition in the last race but put in a strong performance after a long layoff. With that run under his belt and driven by Claes Sjöström, he is strong enough to be in the mix despite difficult conditions. 2 Elevation is quite fast and likes to be driven by Magnus A Djuse. With the right trip from behind she has to be considered early. 3 Single Lane returns after a break and is a place bet with the right trip.

5 PackedwithassTrot has been improved a lot without shoes and also looked nice when locked in last time. Goes for the lead here and competes with an American bike for the first time. 2 Hadahaa took her first career win last time when she reached the front and led all the way. The stable is in great shape and even though she has been a scratch, her form should be good. 8 Global Gladiator is much better than the latest results show and should be considered early with the right journey. 4 King Kong should be on the way up.

8 Zarajevo Games has started his career brilliantly with two convincing wins where he has shown that he can do it tough. Despite a tough lane he is our pick, even though he faces a couple of good horses. 7 Napoleon Sisu showed the right attitude in the last race when he brought down Tahays Blue Jazz from outside the leader finishing 14.1/1000. 5 Rödluvan Newport held strongly from the outside of the leader in the last race. Is developing well and should get a nice trip. 9 Irina Jet looked brilliant from the lead in the debut for Paul Hagoort and should be considered early again.

6 Geenah Effe was a bit fiery from the lead in the last race. The four-year-old has shown great capacity in Italy with five wins in eleven starts. She owns good speed and should reach a nice position - maybe even the lead. 2 Mellby Nemo was strong in last week's start and the reports before the race were very positive. Tight starts and on the way up. 10 Hip To Be Square is still inexperienced but has already shown great capacity for this class. 3 Kohkahycumest looked nice in the last debut for a new trainer, but has been a scratch after that.

9 Neymar Boko is matched in tough company and likes the long distance where he can benefit from his strength. Kevin Svedlund's 6-year-old is going down a class here and despite a tricky lane he is an early contender here. 13 Matiere did well in the seasonal debut and put in a nice performance in Örebro In'tl in the race after. With two runs under his belt, his form should be top notch and he will face much easier opposition now. 7 Rarely Access likes this distance and could find the lead with Carl Johan Jepson. 12 Drill has been prepared for this race. Strong enough to be in the mix.

6 Pehoe Boko was poorly drawn in the last race but finished well. Judging from previous performances she can open really quickly and also likes to race in the front. 4 Mahakala was the favorite in the last V85 race last time. Jepson and can open fast, but above all he is competing barefoot for the first time. 3 Global Gossip looked brilliant in the debut for trainer Mattias Djuse. Barefoot forward and run under his belt. 5 Camille Adi puts in nice performances every time. Interesting changes now and early contender.
