8 Bonsse Garde has really developed in a great way. Won the short E3 final at the end of August. Despite this lane, the mare has to be considered very early. 12 Moder Teresa Sisu has only made five starts, but is coming more and more. A poor starting position, but the mare has the capacity to make it to the final. 11 Marilyn Sisu is very capable, but has not been reliable and galloped a lot. Good chance to make it to the final, without a mistake. 6 Mysleeve One has been consistent and could go barefoot now.

7 Wise Guy is one of the most impressive of his year so far. Hadn't raced for over two months when he made his comeback at the beginning of September. Wasn't at his best then and got a defensive journey. Should be better now and is our pick. 9 Zarex has the right attitude. Early contender but needs some racing luck from this lane. 4 Ejnar Face had a poor lane in the last race and never got a real chance. Barefoot behind now is interesting. 5 Mandrake is getting better and better. American bike.

2 Love To The Limit finished second in the short E3 final last time and is matched in tough company. Perfect draw here and should have top chance to win despite a couple of good opponents. 3 Chamberi is of course very hard to predict, but she has scored three very strong wins. Completely different opposition now, but is certainly well prepared by top trainer Timo Nurmos. 6 Mimosa To Martini scored a good win in the last race. This distance might not be an advantage. 7 Peggy Boko has good capacity but this lane is tricky.

12 Kobra Brick has put in strong efforts so far and is one of the best horses of her year. Competes barefoot and with an American bike, which is a big advantage. Tricky lane, but the opposition is not the toughest. 10 Slipstream Zon impressed a lot in the last race and is very speedy. Carl Johan Jepson is in great form. 2 Cala Karamell does not have the same capacity as the above but has got an excellent starting position. 8 Pamela Boko was strong from the outside of the leader in the last race and now she runs without shoes.
