8 Upper Tile took his first career win from the lead in the last race. He has had a break but is well prepared and in the lead he is the horse to beat. 9 Al's Mazzimo scored a nice victory in the last race and if he can continue his development he is an early contender. 5 Moon's Izeegae kept up the pace well in the seasonal debut and from an optimal lane he is an early choice. 6 Superior Launcher faces tougher challenges now, but with two runs under his belt, his form should be on the way up.

6 Intrigante galloped in his ridden debut, but his sulky form is absolutely top. Together with Jonathan Carre he is our winner if avoiding a mistake. 8 Global Difference did alright in his seasonal debut. He is now making an exciting ridden debut and has good capacity. He will be in the mix. 3 Black Mountain is strong and clearly benefits from high pace. He has also won in this discipline before. 7 Caviar's Dream is all-round and good enough to fight for victory here.

11 Silver Håleryd was extremely positive in the last race. He is developing strongly and is very good for this class. Looks like he has top chance despite this number. 4 Mint Julep makes an exciting debut in Sweden. Hard to predict, but looks nice and took the only win in the lead, where he could come again. 1 Numina is strong and should have moved forward. Opens alright and will fight for the win if she doesn't get locked in. 2 Northern Lights is not reliable, but has shown very good strength.

11 Urgent Tile did very well in his first season. He faces nice conditions here and from this lane he could find an early lead. Once there he looks like he has a very good chance of winning. 1 Kadu Moseby wins often. He has certainly won in Denmark, but if the favorite loses he is also possible in Sweden. 10 Power Of Sand showed clear upward form in the last race and defeats many opponents with the right trip. 12 Dynamite On Time is in absolute top form and should not be overlooked.

7 Wicletson has never won a race but the recent performances suggest that it should be his turn soon. He can open quite fast and gets a position in front. 3 Crazy Cash was mediocre last time but has trained well since then. Normally he is very speedy and an early contender. 1 Perfect Steel competes barefoot and should be considered early from this interesting lane. 11 Incitanus Sotto is up and down but passes many opponents with the right journey.
