2 Hidalgo Heldia broke through when he won in May 2022 at 1.09.6a/1640. After that, the horse continued to impress and many probably believed that last year's horse would be able to step up to the very top. Now, however, that never happened and last year must be seen as a failure. Now the horse is ready for a restart and faces a suitable task in his annual debut. He is not completely to be trusted, but has good speed in abundance and if he behaves it looks set for a tip and a finish. 7 Castor The Star, in contrast to the tipsetta, had a fantastic season last year. Here, too, there is the capacity how to take the step up against the best during the year and with reversed tracks he would have been the given tipsetta. Now, however, he looks set to get the tougher race, which decided the ranking election. 10 Djokovic does not have the same top level as the aforementioned, but in return has documented form. Same with 8 Fortune Mearas who is speedy if he gets to sneak along.

At nine years old, 3 Fastnet has not earned more than SEK 183,100. A lot has been due to the fact that he had difficulty handling himself, as evidenced by six gallops in his last ten starts. The capacity-how is there, however, and should he stabilize in the future, he can certainly earn some money in the future. He thrives best when he can go at his own pace and use his strength. The conditions are therefore suitable and from the lead with a well-balanced pace he can be difficult to take down. 9 Just Fontaine is after a slump in the process of find top form and performances this year have both been of the more positive kind. With both strength and speed, he handles different scenarios and without any fuss, a second straight victory can be a fact. 6 Nikylon is not to be trusted, but has beaten better horses than this and should not be counted out in a flawless race. 10 Cersei Gene is the form horse in the race and can put the finishing touches with a suitable stealth trip.

3 JJ Detgårbranu has started promisingly with four victories out of four possible. The five-year-old Raja Mirchi son does not yet know what it is like to lose. Last time he answered honestly from the front when he got some pressure on him during the final round. The victories are won from the top, he is aiming for that again and with Mats Djuse in the wagon there should be a good chance to get there. 13 Patton owns the best speed of all and has the toughness that is lacking on the starting vault. He is above the vault start, but if you figure out the fifth track in the vault, his form and speed will bite sharply in this class. 1 Kinematic has not yet won a race, but looked good as a lock in the year's debut and seems to have been the front runner. 11 Ares is not easy to count on, but has delivered impressive efforts piecemeal. If he competes at the top, it can go a long way.

10 Farmens Riska returned last after a short competition break. She then had a tough race with wide tracks up to the outside of the leader, but held on well as a clear second. That race has certainly brought her forward in terms of form and we expect an even better effort this time. She is in a nice conditions position in the race and we think there is a good chance that Jan Ove Olsen will get a victory parade here. 2 Bork Tindra is fast from the start and is our top favorite. Last time there was a gallop in the final turn and there seemed to be plenty of energy left on that occasion. She passed on V75 second last from a similar draw and should be counted early behind our tipsetta. 11 Kaksi gets safe Ulf Ohlsson in the wagon and is also ease in the balance for this start. She is nice conditions with money and is given to grooming. 5 Helma has now had three run under his belt after the break and her form is improving. With the right trip, she has enough speed to be able to challenge.

10 Önas Rose has now done two races after a long competition break which resulted in two straight victories. In the comeback she got a race in the third pair on the outside and finished the last half-lap energetically to a sure victory. Last time she pulled away to a clear victory from the lead. With two run under his belt now, the form is rising and counts early despite the back draw line this time. 7 Lukanos is a tough guy who won after a nice finish in the last half lap last time. He is not so fast from the start so there is a certain risk of swaying from the position. However, Vi believe that Zeb Jonasson is offensive from the start and drives forward directly and battles for victory without fuss. 9 Loaded Olle showed great form last time in a fast finish. Nice stealth position now and is given in the battle for victory with the smallest luck. 4 Jean P.Hill made it pass last. Has got a good track and should he manage to drive close after a bit, he is heavily favoured.

14 Iceland Falls now makes its first start since the winter meeting in Frankrike. Everything sounds good from the stable and we can probably expect a good effort straight away. It is about a tough mare who, if she doesn't strut too much, should have a good chance of rounding this the field. 13 O'Mara Zon had a fantastic year last year with final places in several of the big races. It is now about the debut of the year, but she is well prepared and with her strength and honest attitude she will be in the fight for victory and is gifted well win the race. 5 Never To Young does have a five wide to contend with, but the mare is stable in the vault and fast when you turn her up, so it is not completely impossible that she can be driven close. got locked in last with plenty of energy spared, so the shape is truly flawless. 9 Future Sox is in top form and should not be overlooked, even if she now faces somewhat tougher competitors.

4 Kaxig In comes with two straight wins and stood for a strong finish last time and then showed a finish that even surprised trainer David Persson. The five-year-old, who should be seen with the greatest chance of winning in the race, is clearly in top form. 11 Sandokan was locked in with a lot of energy spared last time and showed that the effort the time before was a coincidence. He is possibly sharpest from the lead, but in the form he is in for the day, he can very well take down all of them - especially if the pace is kept up at the front. 9 Kingslayer Pellini finished 11.8/700 on debut as runner-up and needed that run-through to find form. Now it will be barefoot the american bike, which is optimal. 10 No Limit Express made a strong comeback as he was able to win safely. The gelding has probably progressed somewhat with that run under his belt and will stand for a good effort that can go a long way.
